

FACULTY OF | UNIVERSITY OF
MEDICINE | CALGARY

“Eyes High” Postdoctoral Fellow, University of Calgary Division of Psychosocial Oncology, Department of Oncology, Cumming School of Medicine

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow in the area of Integrative Oncology, working with Dr. Linda E. Carlson, Professor and holder of the Enbridge Research Chair in Psychosocial Oncology, and Dr. Tavis Campbell, Professor in the Department of Psychology. The postdoc will be hired with funding from the University of Calgary “Eyes High” Postdoctoral Scholars Competition.

Integrative Oncology is an evidence-based oncology sub-specialty which promotes a system of integrative, collaborative, patient-centered care which uses complementary therapies (CTs) including mind-body therapies, natural health products and energy therapies in concert with medical treatment to enhance treatment efficacy, improve symptom control, alleviate patient distress, and reduce suffering.

The postdoctoral fellow would be involved in ongoing research projects including complementary therapy education programs for patients and health care providers, clinical trials in acupuncture, mindfulness and tai chi/qigong, and online and app-based mindfulness training programs. They will also get hands-on experience in grant writing, ethics applications and data management. The postdoc will have an opportunity to be involved in training and mentoring junior students, presenting their work at local and national conferences, co-authoring papers and be involved in provincial cancer survivorship research and programming. If the successful candidate has a specific area or project in mind they wish to initiate this will also be supported.

Requirements are a completed PhD in clinical or health psychology, nursing, social work, medical science or allied professions, interest and preferably experience in psychosocial oncology, mindfulness or integrative medicine, and a solid publication record. Salary is $50,000/year CAD with full benefits, for a 2-year term. Start date is between January-June 2019, with some flexibility.
